The severe charges against Mr. Gibbings, of The severe charges against Mr. GIDDINGS, of having feloniously abstracted certain papers from the files of the Poat Office Department, has "fizzled out," as you will see by reference to the unanimous report of the committee to which it was referred. Nobody who heard Mr. GIDDINGS shatement of self-vindication, when he asked for an investigation of the charge made by the correspondent of the Boston Alicas, watched his emphatic words and his truth illumed countenance, (apart from any knowleds of the moral traits of the acfrom any knowledge of the moral traits of the ac-cused) could have hesitated a moment about con-cluding, as I did at the time, that the charge would prove to have been utterly unfounded in fact, how-ever honestly it might have been preferred. The Senators from California were admitted today, presenting a deeply interesting scene, espe-cially during the drawing for the long and short terms, the latter of which fell to the lot of Mr. FRE-Mr. BENTON seemed deeply interested in the trial of luck, and he gave evident signs of emo-tion, not only at this particular stage of the pro-ceedings, but also when the Senators were pressing around his heroicson in law, to extend the hand of welcome. By the by, it is a curious feature in our system of Government, or rather it is a curious flustration of the play of our public sentiment, that made it "all right," for the bitterest oppo-ments of California's admission, to be the promptest to extend the hand of welcome to her Represent-atives, now that the angry controversy is over, and she is one of the great Statal Sisterhood!

This was the case with such rampant Southrons This was the case with such rampant soutcorons as Davis of Mississippi and Soutce of Louisians, whom I noticed in the groups of greeters. But I will not dwell upon a scene which is the province of your more graphic senatorial watcher, "S.P. A," to describe. I am sorry I am not allowed to describe a similar acene in the House. When the Representatives from California in that branch of the National Legislature (Messrs. Gilbert and Wright) presented themselves, the opposition of the Southern extremists showed itself is a protest -for such it was-sgainst their loadmissibility Constitutional grounds. This was made by Mr. VENABLE, and supported in a characteristic speech. I was in hopes that, after he had his day, speech. I was in hopes that, after he had his day, the waiting Representatives would have been sworn in. But Mr VENABLE soon found an opposer, and the consequence was an adjournment after frequent signs of impatience on the part of the majority of the House, and calls for the question, pending a motion for the previous question.

I am requested to state in behalf of Mr. Booth, one of the Representatives from Connecticut, that the telegraphic report of the Yeas and Nays on the Boundary Bill has led you into an error in your analysis, based thereon. He coted, and against the bill, as no doubt his colleague, Mr. CLEYELAND, would have done had be been present. You had Mr Booth down "absent or not voting." While on this subject I will take occasion to say that an error occurred also in the telegraphic report of the first vote had on Mr. Boyn's amendment to said bill. It omitted the name of Mr. Butl.R. of Con-necticut, who voted against tacking it to the bill— There are other votes of Northern men whi hould have been pleased to "correct," had itbeen

Religious Meeting on a Steambout-Fatal Ac-eident-The Syracuse Opposition Conven-

Correspondence of The Tribune. Syracuse, Tuesday, Sept. 10, 1850. I telegraphed you this morning from Albany, on account of an accident on the Hudson River last might. We left New York at 6 o'clock, on the Issac Mewton, quite a large company being on board Among other passengers were several Clergymen, on their way to Oswego, to attend the meeting of the Board of Foreign Missions. After tes, Rev Samuel H. Cox, D.D. of Brooklyn, stated that he had permission from the Captain, if the passengers were agreed, to have religious exercises on board It was put to a vote, and no one objected. The company then gathered in the Saloon, and after singing the Hymn " From Greenland's Tey Mounsinging the Hymn "From Greenland's Ley Moun-sains," Rev. Dr. Scott of Newark, offered up an appropriate prayer. Rev. Dr. Poor of Ceylon, was then introduced, and made a brief speech. Howas then introduced, and made a brief speech. Howas the introduced by Hey Mr. Parris a Missionary from the followed by Rev. Mr. Parris, a Missionary from the Bawaiian Islands. Rev. Monsieur Pelat of Paris, followed in a brief speech, delivered in English, by the assistance of Rev. Mr La Fleur of Canada as Interpreter, who overhauled Popery, severely-The only excuse for him was that, being a stranger, he did not know that in this country all religions and sects stand upon equal grounds.

Several Catholics were among the passengers which would undoubtedly have suggested different conduct, but that he seemed ignorant of the above fact. Dr. Cox then followed in a speech in which there were some good points. He said the first President of France could be compared to Washngton only by imagining a series of gradation, with Washington at the head and run the parallel to in finity, and there place Louis Napoleon. In fact the Doctor said that so far from Young Napoleonstanding a comparison with Washington, he would not, ing a comparison with vashing on the work has after dinner, stand at all. This and other similar good points he made, but he made others out of all taste by an unnecessary attack upon the Oatholies, whom the Oapian should not have permitted to be insulted on his boat, and he walked into the to be insulted on his out. And he washed into the Irish emigrants as if they were not lovers of liberty. Dr. Cox should remember that the only martyrs in Irish history were those sacrificed by Protestant England. That every battle field in American history whose all the daystion of the Irish to the estant England. That every battle held in Adecican history showed the devotion of the Irish to the Stars and Stripes, and that while the Puritans of Massachusetts were hunting Roger Williams, and bursing women for witcheraft, and while Protestant Virginia was persecuting the Quakers, Oathche Maryland was the only true asylum where all were protected from persecution.

But let that pass. There were several gentlemen present who intended to reply to the Dr.'s remarks, but the exercises were closed with prayer marks, but the exercises were closed with prayer by the Dr. and discussion seemed out of place.

Monsieur Peiat gave Proudon, Cabst and other Socialists in France a rowing up in his speech.

Among the audience I noticed, beside the Rev. gentlemen above named Charles O'Conor, Edwin Croswell and lady, Hon. Mr. Birdsall. Hon. D. B. St. John, Wilson G. Hunt and family, Mrs. O. S. Halsted, of New Jersey, &c. Ac.

Scon after the meeting the engine was stopped, and it was found that, just above West Point, we had run into a small schooner, named the "Samuel Gordon," of about 14 tuns. She was laden with feed, &c. The owner, Nathan Colman, aged about 26, was at the belm when the steamer struck her.

He was lost. His younger brother was in the He was lost. His younger brother was in the cabin fixing his bed. The schooner experied and almost filled with water, but righted again with almost filled with water, but righted again with loss of cargo, and the younger of the brothers was brought, drenched, on board, and put in a berth, without even a dry shirt to put on. The steamer left the schooner adrift in the river and proceeded to Newburgh, from which a pilot was sent down, but not, perhaps, till some other steamer amaked ber to pieces in the dark. I cannot but think that this was a piece of gross carelessness on the part of Capt Peck. The value of the vess and cargo was probably about $1,000. It was said she had was probably about $1,000. It was said she had no light on board, but the boy says his brother shouted, and the response from the steamer was "Getout of the way, d-n you!" At all events, the Newton should have stopped till the sloop was taken to the shore, as the boy said he wished. The passengers too, as they had been exercising ther hearts with religion, might have thought of the poor boy; but no one suggested it, and when the poor boy; but no one suggested it, and when the first him this morning the poor fellow was in Aloany, without a rag to cover him, or a penny to get him a breakfast but a trifle given by two or three who saw him. I presume however, the Cautain would procure him a suit of clothes. Poor boy his father was alilled last Fall by being run down in a small boat by the steamer Empire.

Well, the human heart is hard, and we toil him to take care of himself. We arrived at Syracuse a little siter 1 o'clock to-day, in the express train, which was so long that we had to divide it not two. Conductor Cottle putting us through with his accustomed energy and care; and here I am now at midnight studying Loce Foccism, and writing the results to The Tribune.

This has been a curious day here, and we have had some excitement this evening. There is here a cardidate for tiovernoy. (Dr. Dunler, of Hanse)

This has been a curious day here, and we have had some excitement this evening. There is here a candidate for Governor, (Dr. Dunlap, of Hensselaer,) who is electioneering for himself. A large crowd assembled in front of the Syracuse House, where a mock mass meeting was got up, friendly to the Doctor. Dr. Waltersof the Eleventh Ward, N. Y. City, was moved to the chair by the Delegate (pro tem. in Ald. Kelly's absence) from the Sixth Ward. Dr. Dunlap followed in a speech in favor of himself which was received with great applause by the multitude. Capt. Rynders, who is a great lion among the Democracy here, made a thrilling speech, which called forth great applause. So far all went well for Dr. Dunlap, but Col. War-So far all went well for Dr. Dunlap, but Col. Warner, a veteran of the last war under Scott, came forward forhimself and denounced the Doctor. The fun was that both speakers are actually candidates for Governor, and hope to succeed. They were real actors in the scene and many of the outsiders thought that all was in earnest. Of course Capt.

Hynders and the other orators intended it all for amusement to pass away the time. Dr. Dunlay will make a row to-morrow if he fails to get the nomination. He says Seymour can't be elected; that he can beat Washington Hunt 80,000, and be elected President in 1859.

And now to return to serious matters. The evening is ended. All have retired to rest, and I must say that with the exception of the Dunlap meeting the evening has been very dull. I have telegraphed you the speculations of the evening and will add something transpiring since the Telegraph closed. I send you a list of Delegates to be published in to mornow's Standard as complete. to morrow's Standard as complete as it can be made, most of whom are here, and with it will add what seems to be the best of things now.

1. The Barnburners claim a clear majority of the Delegates. Out of the 128 they figure up 67, leav ing the Hunkers but 61. There are many moder-ste men of both sections, who go in for Harmony and victory. The Harmonists claim about 100 of the 128.

2. Many of these harmonists desire union and success, and expect both. Some of the warmest Barnburners are in favor of nominating Mr. Seymour of Utica, for Governor, and the impression is, that he will be nominated on the first ballot. The more ultra Hunkers had a kind of secret caucus this evening, but mustered only some 15 or 20.

3. The more stubborn Hunkers are afraid that if Seymour is nominated, the Barnburners will claim the U.S. Senator, to be elected next session of the Legislature, and thus throw out Mr. Diskinson.—The Hunkers will also try for the Canal Commissioner, and Mr. Smith of Otsego and Mather of Hensselser are the candidates for this. Peter those, Mayor of Schenectady, a popular man and a good Mayor of Schenectady, a popular man and a good fellow, is also warmly supported for Canal Commis-

I believe it is agreed to night among the members to give up opposition to John Van Buren. If this is so, things may go on pretty smoothly. John is bere in all his glory, with troops of friends, at Rust's Hotel, the headquarters of excitementhers. Hust's Hotel, the headquarters of excitementhers Dr. Brandreth, Judge Beardsley and other out-siders are here, and the leading delegates whom you will see mentioned in the list. Edwin Cros-well I have not see here. well I have not seen here. Ald Kelly is not you arrived.

But I most close with this one remark, that as far as I have seen, and I have conversed with many, there seems a determination to unite the Democracy for the coming campaign. If they succeed, the Whigs will have to bestir themselves to keep the Empire State steady on the Whig course.

The Gold Mines of Chintares, in Central

GRENADA, State of Stearsgus, August 15, 1856

To the Editor of The Tribune: Beeing your paper is the first to impart informa tion from this part of Central America, I think it my duty to give you a sketch of my leit to the Department of Chintares. In company with three Americans and a Cyensee, we arrived at the mines. natives of Contral America. The mines are not similar to those in California, where the gold is found upon the surface, but in very hard stone found upon the seriace, but in very nard access similar to the quartz. The range of mountains called the Chitares, extend from Lake Nicaragua across to Matiagraps, and from what I have seen of it, there is minerally every description; from copper, lead, coal, gold and silver. There is no action of these mountains but where gold is to be from Granada. If the mass of emigrants knew of the tressure that he here undisturbed, I am of the Yankees have that.

The inhabitants were very glad to hear of the ratification of the trenty by the United States Senate, but are very sorry to see the British Government hold undisturbed possession of the port of San Juan de Niesragua, levying entries one day and going into operation on the next. They seem to be very savings to know which direction that transit is like. anxious to know which direction the transit is likely to pass Nicaragua or Grenada. At the former, the distance is not far, but the road is very mountainous and very bad, and the port of San Juan dn Lac, on the Pacific, is not a very good harbor far vessels, being exposed to the south and west alterestic. together.

Horrible Suffering-Starvation-Man Eating his Hand-Shipwreck on Lake Michigan. We are indebted to Capt. William H. Hopper, of the Central Road, for the following particulars: Capt. Hopkins, of the steamer J. D. Morton, while on her passage from Chicago to New Buffale, on Friday last, discovered what he supposed to be a raft with some one upon it, some five miles in the Lake. He immediately turned his boat and went for the object. He found the raft made of spars, with Capt Davidson, of the schooner Thornton, upon it. It appears he was wrecked on the 31st uit having been seven days and nights without food. Two of the crew, whose names he did not learn, with the Captain, made the raft of the main most, main boom and main gaft. The two men dropped off on the third night after, having become excansted for want of food. Capt. Hopkins describes the scene as most pitful. Capt. Davidson had commetteed earter his kand the last night. Several steamers and vessels have been in sight. and one vessel sailed him, but made no attempt to get him off Of course the Captain is exceedingly weak, but in a fair way for recovery.
